– Publication List on Biogents Traps –

– (mostly the BG-Sentinel) –

Scientific studies with Biogents traps and/or attractants, published in peer-reviewed journals

Scientific studies with Biogents traps and/or attractants, presented at scientific meetings and congresses

Book chapters, PhD theses and other journal articles

Search these publications at www.zotero.org/groups/bg-sentinel/items

Find more information on the BG-Sentinel at www.bg-sentinel.com or at www.biogents.com
Scientific studies with Biogents traps and/or attractants, published in peer-reviewed journals

(Resolve a DOI at http://dx.DOI.org/)

71.

77. Dickinson, Katherine L., Mary H. Hayden, Steven Haenchen, Andrew Monaghan, Kathleen E. Walker, and Kacey C. Ernst. “Willingness to Pay for Mosquito Control in

103. Unlu, I., A. Faraji, N. Indelicato, and I. Rochin. “TrapTech R-Octenol Lure Does Not Improve the Capture Rates of Aedes Albopictus (Diptera: Culicidae) and Other Container-Inhabiting Species in Biogents Sentinel

106.

338. Maciel-de-Freitas, R., Peres, R.C., Souza-Santos, R., and Lourenço-de-Oliveira, R. (2008). Occurrence, productivity and spatial distribution of key-premises in two dengue-endemic areas of Rio de Janeiro and their role in adult Aedes aegypti spatial infestation pattern. Tropical Medicine & International Health 13, 1488–1494.

Book chapters, PhD theses and other journal articles capabilities gap through research at overseas military laboratories. U.S. Army Medical Department journal: 16–27.

Retrieved from http://www.parasitologia.icb.ufmg.br/defesas/251M.PDF

Retrieved from http://www.researchgate.net/publication/200767530_Why_it_can_be_useful_to_attract_the_enemy_leading_mosquitoes_around_by_the_nose/file/f1515a7ed50dbb1eaafc60e5783c12e94.pdf
Scientific studies with Biogents traps and/or attractants, presented at scientific meetings and congresses

